Depression Center
Naming Opportunities

Creating Futures
The University of Colorado Depression Center was built with a singular mission: to improve the lives of people with depression and related mood disorders.

But despite the impressive impact the center has had in its short time on the Anschutz Medical Campus, its current physical space in the renovated army hospital building has many limitations.

Research has shown that the space in which care is delivered can have a significant impact on the quality of care that providers deliver and patients receive. A quality, state-of-the-art environment can destigmatize mental illness, enhance care and elevate the impact an organization can have in the broader community.

A new home for the Depression Center, in the recently-constructed University Physicians Inc. building on the Anschutz Medical Campus, will help realize the center’s vision for the individuals and families that we serve.

Gifts that assist with the build-out and long-term lease needs will bring this project to fruition. As part of the relocation, the spaces into which the center will move will be available for naming. By naming a space in the Depression Center, you can leave a lasting legacy for your family name, or the name of a friend or loved one, all while making a difference to the quality of care received by those with depression and related mood disorders.

Poised to Transform

The Depression Center is poised to transform the care our patients and their families receive, the care our providers deliver, and solidify the center as Colorado’s leader and foremost resource for people living with depression and mood disorders.

This new home will ensure that we bring those struggling with mental health into an uplifting and inspiring environment, through which we can realize this vision.

Please make a gift today, and do your part to creating a better world for those with depression.
